U. S. Probes Red Disc Fleet Report

Special to the Boston Evening American
LOS ANGELES, July 7—Federal agents today investigated a letter to the Examiner describing the Russian supersonic atom-powered planes resembling the "flying saucers."

Discs Prove Puzzle To Harvard Experts

The "flying saucer" mystery does not have its roots in any meteorological cause, John H. Conover, chief observer of Harvard's observatory in the Blue Hills, declared today.

Conover said he and colleagues of his branch of science with whom he had talked are bewildered as the layman with regard to the soaring disc reported in many parts of the country.

"There is no scientific answer so far as meteorology is concerned," Conover said. "There is no connection between the weather and the phenomena reported by those who say they have seen the flying saucers."

"Ice formation has been suggested," he added, "but ice formations could not cause phenomena of this nature."

Dr. Harlow Shapley, Harvard scientist, told the Boston American from his summer home in Peterboro, N. H., that he had no suggestion as to the mystery's cause. "We simply do not know," he put it.

The "flying discs" had been reported seen by Daniel Kelly, radio announcer in Augusta, Me., by Mrs. Edward P. Williams in the Roxbury district of Boston, Arthur Wiggins, a Bedford, N. H., farmer and by three residents in a suburb of Waterbury, Ct.

Wiggins said: "The flash of light was traveling silently."

The Waterbury suburbanites described the "discs" as "silver, blue" in color and moving at high speed.

Harvard University geologist Prof. Kirtley F. Mather, observed: "In my opinion they were definitely a man-made phenomena. This is the first time that saucer-like objects flying at high speeds have ever been reported."

The first report of a landing by a squadron of "flying discs" was followed today by new reports of their appearance in widely scattered areas of the West.

Oregon National Guard planes were on alert, ready to chase and photograph any of the mysterious flying intruders that come within their range, while attention of the curious—and the apprehensive—turned to the mountain wilds of northern Idaho.

There, according to nine persons, a bevy of eight shining "flying saucers" swooped on to a mountainside west of St. Maries, Ida., at twilight last Thursday.

The delayed report came from a Spokane, Wash., housewife, Mrs. Walter Johnson. She told newsmen:

"They came out of the south, travelling northward at extreme speed. They faltered and flittered to the ground among the trees along the St. Joe river."

"There was no noise and the trees seemed to be undisturbed after they disappeared into them. They were as big as a five-room house."

Mrs. Johnson said the point where the weird objects vanished was several miles away from the party that saw them, and night prevented a search of the rugged country.

Brief landing of a single "flying saucer" in Temple, Ariz., was reported by Francis Howell. He said a circular object about two feet in diameter floated to earth near his home yesterday afternoon.

Howell said it went out of sight behind a clump of trees, and when he, his wife and several neighbors approached, the object rose again at a sharp angle and moved westward.

He described it as being flat and thin, apparently made of aluminum, and transparent.

The "flying saucers" first were reported sighted June 24 in southwestern Washington.

Highest authorities in the field of atomic research, including David Lillenthal, chairman of the atomic energy commission, and atomic expert Dr. Harold Urey denied that the discs have any connection with atomic experiments—if they exist.

The War and Navy Departments shrugged their collective shoulders, while an Army Air Force information officer, Capt. Tom Brown, said:

"This is definitely not an air forces experiment. We absolutely do not know what these flying discs are. In fact, we wish we did."

Scientists at the University of California revealed the big lenses at the Mt. Lammon Observatory and other Pacific coast observatories have been trying unsuccessfully to find some of the discs.

A top-flight atomic scientist to whom the Examiner referred the letter said it was "not all nonsense," and suggested the matter be turned over to the FBI.

The letter writer said he got the information from an officer aboard a Russian tanker recently in Los Angeles harbor.

The Russian, he said, also described experiments with controlled radioactive clouds in the Arctic, where birds, animals and even worms were killed.

The planes, as described by the Russian to the writer, are only 18 inches thick, with a kidney-shaped outline and no propellers.

The pilot lies on his stomach and is artificially cooled against the heat developed by air friction.

"The outer surface is highly polished," the Russian said. "Both upper and lower surfaces are convex, like a giant lens. The lifting force is an entirely different principle found about 10 years ago among unpublished papers of a Russian chemist."

"Energy is required only for climbing, but no energy is needed for support when the airplane goes along the earth's gravitational contour lines."

The writer of this strange letter said he met the Russian officer in Wilmington, and because he wanted to hear about Russia, invited him to be his guest at dinner.

The Russian first asked where he could sell 18 polar bear pelts which he received "for very dangerous work."

He said he had been assigned to go over the route of the radioactive cloud near Lake Bakal and pick up dead animals.

"They loaded a few small ships with all kinds of animals and directed the cloud over them," the writer said.

"During this experiment, a violent storm blew the cloud far north into the Tundra, but before it dissipated it destroyed all life on its way."

"The cloud may be controlled from land, from a plane or from a submarine."

Pay Pact Bogs, Coal Strike Held Certain

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—A strike of at least 60 per cent of the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners appears inevitable tomorrow as the wage pact which was to lead the way to peace in the bituminous fields bogged down in last-minute legal tangles.

The other 40 per cent of the industry may also be strike-bound Tuesday, when the miners' 10-day vacation is due to end, if the race to complete a contract for the northern and steel company "captive" mines is lost.

A tentative agreement on general terms was reached last Wednesday, but this contract must be completed before Coal mine owners of the South, Midwest and Far West can determine whether they want to or can buy peace at the same price; Lewis will even talk about an agreement with anyone else.

The legal snarl therefore was not only delaying the northern-steel company settlement seriously near the strike deadline, but it had all but wiped out any hope of getting agreements for the remainder of the industry in time to bring the miners from other areas back into the pits by the first shifts at midnight tonight.

Some operators said Lewis was demanding legal protection against any future strikes under the Taft-Hartley law, and that the industry representatives working on the northern-steel pact had balked.

Firemen Rescue Flier In Tree-Top Crash

BATON ROUGE, La., July 7 (AP)—Firemen used a 65-foot ladder and a rope to extricate a former AAF flier and his light private plane from a tree top. Losing altitude as he approached the airport, the flier, Atty. Devan D. Daggett, Jr., landed in the tree to avoid a crash. Pinioned by a wing on a top branch, pilot and plane hung there for more than an hour.

Girl Dressed As Boy Here In Theft Case

Clad in dungarees and an Army shirt, 17-year-old Marjorie Hilliard of Jamaica Plain calmly smoked cigarets and rested on a couch in a superior court detention room today while waiting arraignment on an indictment charging her with larceny of $386 from a Dorchester druggist.

The tiny four-foot nine-inch girl, brought back here from Pennsylvania after a three-month absence from the city, allegedly claimed she had posed as a boy because it was easier to get around and easier to obtain jobs.

The indictment, on which she faced arraignment before Chief Justice Higgins in Superior Court some time today, charges her with larceny of the $386 from Louis Dressler, proprietor of the Dorchester ave. drugstore where she was employed, last Feb. 3.

Detective Maurice McCarthy, of the Fields Corner station, awaiting the arraignment at the courthouse today, said the girl had obtained work at the drugstore as a "boy." She worked there for two weeks and fooled both the proprietor and customers before she disappeared at the same time the money vanished, he said.

The girl, picked up in McKeesport, Pa., was brought back to Boston, arriving early today at South Station with Policewoman Theresa Connolly.

7 in Family Saved At Roxbury Fire

One man was partially overcome by smoke and with his six children was assisted to safety early today, when fire broke out in a bedroom of a second floor apartment in Clifford st., Roxbury, causing damage of $100.

The blaze was discovered by Samuel Goldman, 42, who was awakened by the smell of smoke. Looking through a window he saw a man in the apartment next door stumbling about in a smoke-filled bedroom, the bed ablaze.

Telling his wife to summon firemen, Goldman ran to the apartment of Ernest Snowstead, 48, and assisted the dazed man to the street. Firemen arrived and led Snowstead's six children to safety. None was hurt.

2 Plead Innocent In Maine Killing

PORTLAND, Me., July 7 (AP)—Pleading innocent to charges of murder in the slaying of Orein D. Hooper, federal court stenographer, Donald W. Bell, 39, and Russell E. Elliott, 28, today were held without bail for the Superior Court.

Bell, a radio advertising salesman, and Elliott had been held since Hooper's body was found buried in a Westbrook sandpit July 7. The 57-year-old Court attache had been missing since June 14.

Bell was quoted as telling investigators Elliott had struck Hooper with a tire wrench after an argument precipitated by "some nasty remarks" Hooper made.

Elliott was quoted as acknowledging he had hit Hooper in self defense.

grave illness last night and that there is now hope of her recovery.

"Of course nobody can tell," Mrs. Undreanu said. "Yesterday we thought it would be a matter of hours but during the night, which physicians said would bring the crisis, she showed strength and this morning seemed better."

"It is absolutely untrue that she has lapsed into a coma. She has been conscious all the time except when sleeping but, of course, she is very weak and is very seriously ill."

"It is also absolutely untrue that she has leukemia. He suffers from serious anemia and has had four blood transfusions. They seem to be helping her."

"We can hope now that she may continue her recovery."

Meanwhile the legal status of the stricken woman's "death-bed" marriage to former King Carol who gave up his Romanian throne for their love remained in doubt.

Legality of the ceremony hanging upon Brazil's unique "in extremis" marriage law—occasionally invoked when a dying person wishes to make a legal marriage gesture toward a person with whom he or she has been living.

The case of Carol and Mme. Lupescu is complicated by the fact that both have been divorced—Carol from Princess Helen of Greece and Mme. Lupescu from a Romanian army officer. Brazilian law does not permit divorce, but allows the Supreme Court to decide whether foreign divorces may be recognized.

The marriage petition has been filed with the marriage court and will be submitted for study.

If Mme. Lupescu lives, and still wishes to marry Carol, they must go through another ceremony.

Full Story Pledged in Vet Slaying

MIAMI, Fla., July 7—Detectives said today a 20-year-old youth has promised them a complete and detailed confession of how he killed Chris T. Theodorou, 24, of Lowell, Mass., after he has a talk with his family.

Wilbur E. Sullivan, seized at his home in suburban Coconut Grove by 10 heavily armed police acting on a tip, is being held for the grand jury after allegedly confessing orally that he fired the fatal shots into the Lowell taxi driver, a former Army flier.

The youth, involved in a gun case three weeks ago, claimed at first the Lowell man drew a knife on him during an argument, police said. Detectives believe Theodorou was shot while resisting a bandit who took his watch and emptied his wallet.

On June 18, Sullivan was arrested for waving a gun at a man and impersonating a detective. He was fined $25 on the impersonating charge, but did not lose his license to carry a gun, according to police records.

The youth was arrested following a tip to R. B. Evanson, probation officer of criminal court here and a former policeman. A man, as yet unidentified by authorities, telephoned Evanson and said, "I know who killed the cab driver. He just told me about it."

Armed with name and address, Evanson turned his tip over to police and the youth's home in suburban Coconut Grove was surrounded by officers armed with riot guns and tear gas bombs. The youth surrendered, however, without any show of resistance.

Taken down to headquarters he at first denied any knowledge of the crime, but finally confronted with his own automatic pistol and with the same calibre shells found beside the slain cabby, he admitted the shooting yesterday, according to Mills.

A lieutenant in the Army's active reserve, Theodorou came to Florida eight months ago with four other youths from his Massachusetts home.

4 Defiant GOPs Rush Tax Cut Bill for New Truman Test

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—Republicans sought to tie a "this or nothing" tag on cutting measure today in their bill on President Truman's desk before the week ends.

Chairman Knutson of the House Ways and Means Committee, author of the bill—identical with the one the President rejected except that the effective date would be Jan. 1, 1948, instead of July 1, 1947—made two moves to head off any further changes: 1—He asked the House rules committee to approve procedures to prohibit any amendments being offered when the House takes up the measure tomorrow. The House is a cinch to approve the bill as is, probably by more than a two-thirds majority.

2—To head off possible Senate revisions, Knutson wrote Comptroller (D.) of Virginia promising action in January on a husband-and-wife community property bill. The letter said it would be "most unfortunate" if Congress acted "hastily on this matter before we found an adequate solution."

Meanwhile, one of the biggest threats to passage of the bill—a possible filibuster in the Senate—subsided.

Sen. Taylor (D.) of Idaho, who led the talkback that delayed the Senate vote to override Mr. Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill, told reporters although he opposes the tax cut measure: "I don't think it is a life and death matter with the country and I have no intention of talking at length about it."

Chairman Millikin (R.) of Colorado, of the Senate finance committee, predicted efforts to amend the measure will be beaten down on the Senate floor.

However, Sen. McClellan (D.) of Arkansas and others seeking the community property amendment are not likely to be turned off their course by Knutson's letter.

The Arkansas lawmaker insisted it will be an adequate solution to put into the bill a provision making it possible for husbands and wives in all states—not just the 10 where the practice now is legal by state law—to split their income and take advantage of lower federal tax rates.

If the community property amendment were adopted, the tax slash in the bill would be boosted from $4,000,000,000 to almost $5,000,000,000.

Knutson said it would be "the height of folly" to open the measure for amendments, commenting that this "almost certainly would result in provisions that would be unworkable and unacceptable to the President."

While there appears to be no doubt the bill can be sent to the White House in its present form—cuts ranging from 30 per cent on low incomes down to 10.5 per cent on highest incomes—the sponsors were keeping their fingers crossed while guessing what might happen if Mr. Truman sends up another veto.

The overriding two-thirds seems certain in the House, but the Senate is the big question mark.

Unlike most albinos, though, Mrs. Sammons observed, it has been welcomed by other birds in the flock to share their hospitality.

Town Race Track For Topsy Cyclists

HOLLISTER, Cal., July 7 (AP)—Disorderly mob of pleasure-bent motorcyclists, their reckless spirits fired in many cases by liquor, gave this normally quiet central California county seat a bad time over the week-end.

During the riotous disturbance, in which police were defied and order was restored only after scores had been jailed, at least 50 persons were injured, some seriously.

The turmoil started Friday, when some of the motorcyclists ignored police and used the downtown area as a combined race-track and stunt area.

Police heaved more than 50 into jail and collected fines of more than $2,000.

House Prober Raps Petrillo at Hearing

WASHINGTON, July 7 (INS)—The head of a congressional investigating committee bluntly today told James C. Petrillo, Musicians' Union president, that his organization is engaging in unfair activities and practices detrimental to the country.

Mississippi Still Flood Menace

ST. LOUIS, July 7 (AP)—Army engineers warned today that although the flooded Mississippi was subsiding South of St. Louis, many levees were in a weakened condition and required even greater vigilance.

Even though falling, the river is still at stages "which in other years would have been classed as a major disaster," Col. R. E. Smyser, Jr., St. Louis district engineer, declared.

"It will be some time before we can make plans for adequate repair of damaged levees. Meanwhile, though they will not be topped, they will require ceaseless patrolling day and night," he said.

The short, chunky leader of the American Federation of Musicians (AFM), was also accused of being a dictator who has denied the American people the right to enjoy the kind of music which they may desire to hear.

The accusations were made by Rep. Kearns (R.) of Pennsylvania, chairman of a House Labor Subcommittee at public hearings into complaints against the labor leader and his organization.

It was Petrillo's first appearance before a congressional committee since the Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the Lea anti-Petrillo act, which Petrillo denied.

Kearns, a member of Petrillo's union for many years, faced the threat of union expulsion as he directed his fire against the labor leader.

Kearns, composer, music teacher and opera singer, who had reported to the FBI during hearings on the Taft-Hartley bill that his life had been threatened, told Petrillo that he and his union were now violating the Lea act.

He charged that only 10 per cent of its membership is employed exclusively as musicians and that the union has forced the recording industry to pay approximately $2,000,000 as "tribute" for making records.

The union has used the threat of strikes and boycotts to require theater operators to employ standby orchestras which were not needed, and has "dictated" to broadcasters the number of musicians they should employ and the amount they should spend on music, Kearns alleged.

He further charged Petrillo has held back technological improvements in radio and television, denied "live" music to FM broadcasting stations, has prevented amateur musicians from performing requires churches to pay standby fees for organists, denied school orchestras and choruses the right to broadcast, and prevents Army-Navy bands from making records.

Week-end Death Toll 29 in N. E.

New England counted 29 deaths today in the long holiday week-end which saw millions thronging resort areas in the greatest turnout of pleasure seekers since 1941.

The Associated Press reported that more than 500 persons died of highway traffic and other mishaps during the three-day week-end.

From 6 p. m., Thursday until Sunday midnight there were 248 reported deaths in automobile accidents, 160 drownings, five in fireworks explosions, and 103 from miscellaneous causes, a total of 516.

California had the highest number of fatalities with 38.

Maine led the regional toll with 10 deaths, four on highways, three from drowning, two in an airplane crash and one in a fireworks mishap.

Worst accident was at Hyannis, where six persons were knocked down by an auto that plowed into a group waiting for a bus in the Bass River section. Gail Eaton, eight-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Eaton of Springfield, Hyannis, died of a fractured skull.

Also injured were the child's mother; a sister, Anna K. Eaton, 2; Mrs. Annie Baker, 54; Mrs. Sophie Fahey, 26, and the latter's daughter, Mary J. Fahey, 2. Both Mrs. Eaton and her surviving baby have broken legs.

Other deaths on the last day of the holiday included a double drowning in Chelsea, Vt. Harry Kennedy, 39, and his nephew, John, 2, were drowned in Grotton Pond when a power boat overturned. The child's parents and a brother, Ray, 13, were rescued.

Edward Gorman, 13, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gorman of Broadway, Somerville, was drowned off Sandy Beach in upper Mystic Lake, Winchester. His body was recovered only 12 feet from shore.

Joan Crawford Calls Off Barry Romance

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor International News Service
Copyright, 1947, International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, July 6—The widely-publicized romance of Joan Crawford and Don "Red" Barry is all over! Following the news that the cowboy-actor had not yet paid for the fabulous gifts he gave Joan came word that the actual price of the $30,000 white mink coat was $9000.

Teitelbaum, the furrier, said he received $4500 cash and a note on a bank from Barry for the balance due. It was the furrier who gave out the story of the costly mink coat, but now he claims that this was done at Barry's request.

Barry's gifts to Joan of jewelry—a diamond necklace and other valuable pieces—are not yet paid for.

Joan, who is always forthright and honest, is one of the few glamor girls I know who would say very frankly that she has made a mistake. She said today: "I wish nothing could be said about the whole thing, because I am hopeful the merchants will get their money."

What particularly irked Joan was that Barry had talked with a Hollywood agent about putting her in a picture and agreed to deliver her. She countered that he had no right to offer her for a picture in the first place.

Barry, who was a very sad and chastened young man following his battle with Joan, said: "I've been working at Republic for nine years. I've saved money, because I never spent any such sums on anyone as I did on Joan. I can pay for all the gifts I bought if I'm given time."

"I did talk to Charlie Feldman about 'Anna Lucasta.' I offered to pay $200,000 for half interest in the film rights of the play, which I knew she wanted to make. I'm deeply in love with Joan. I've never known anyone like her."

"I never expected when I went out on one date with her that it would be more than just one date."

How Barry expected to pay the $200,000 for an interest in the film rights to "Anna Lucasta" and the other big obligations he had assumed I don't know. He insists it was Teitelbaum who put the $30,000 price on the white mink coat. But, on the other hand, the furrier says that Barry asked for a bit of sash for $15,000 to show the lady of his heart.

As matters stand now all Joan wants is never to see him again.

JOAN CRAWFORD

New Bomb Could Demolish Moscow

PARIS, July 7 (AP)—The newspaper L'Intransigent quoted French military circles today as styling a new American atomic bomb "capable of destroying Paris or Moscow" by blasting a hole 2700 feet deep and 11 miles wide had been tested in New Mexico.

(Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago where the atom bomb was pioneered and president of the committee to frame a world constitution, said recently that "American science and technology have produced a stockpile of new and improved bombs large enough, according to usually conservative sources, to destroy every large city on the earth.")

L'Intransigent said the new bomb, in a test, destroyed a facsimile of a large city, complete with reinforced concrete buildings, built especially for the trial. Technical details are not available, the article continued, but it said the tests had consumed 14,000 tons of silver, or "two and a half years of the world's production."

Crash Stirs Protest Wave On 'Roof-Hopping' Planes

A wave of public protest against low-flying planes from the Squantum air base swept through the Quincy-Dorchester district today, as Navy officials opened an investigation into the fatal crash of a Helldiver into a row of three homes in No. Quincy, wrecked and setting them ablaze.

Killed in the crash was the plane's pilot, Ens. George Edward Curley, 26, son of Mrs. Mary A. Curley of Winthrop st., Hyde Park. Seriously injured and in Chelsea Naval Hospital is his enlisted passenger, Storekeeper 3c Hugh Francis Ahern, Jr., 20, of Fuller st., Dorchester, who suffered a broken jaw and internal injuries.

Also seriously injured and in Quincy City Hospital with burns of the face, arms and legs and a fractured left ankle, is Mrs. Mary Batchelder, 60, of Faxon rd., North Quincy, into whose home the plane plunged.

Mrs. Batchelder was lying on a couch on the porch of her home when the disabled plane struck only a few feet away. Eight other residents of the three houses wrecked and set ablaze fled from the scene, terrorized but unhurt. Total property damage resulting from the crash was estimated at more than $50,000.

Twenty firemen and sailors were treated for smoke inhalation and burns at the scene of the two-alarm fire, Chief Robert Fenby of the Quincy fire department directed firefighters in bringing the blaze under control.

As the firemen, police and Navy emergency crews raced into the district and battled to prevent flames spreading to other dwellings, thousands of spectators gathered but were kept back of fire lines and traffic was rerouted around the area.

The crash climaxed numerous complaints to Navy officials against pilots flying their planes low over the heavily-populated districts surrounding the Squantum base.

According to Navy officials, the plane took off as last in a group leaving the airbase on a routine Sunday training flight.

Immediately after taking off, the plane was seen to be in difficulty. Failing to gain altitude, it swerved slowly to the left and into the residential section of North Quincy, less than a mile from the field.

Eyewitnesses said they first heard the plane's engine sputter and then go dead, and saw the aircraft swooping low over rooftops.

Youth Pleads Not Guilty in Attack on Girl

Held in Attack Attempt On Dorchester Girl, 11

Lester Brown, 35, West Springfield st., South End, was arraigned in Dorchester District Court today on charges of assault with intent to attack Geraldine Cierniewski, 11,

Pianist Stages Bizarre Suicide

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich., July 7 (AP)—A crazed piano player cut his throat, then ran naked among passengers of the D. & C. steamer Western States during a week-end holiday cruise, ship's authorities reported today.

Dr. R. D. Engle, Emmet County identified the man as Ormund W. Stone, 39, of the Avon Hotel, Detroit, who died in Lockwood Hospital at Petoskey, Mich.

Capt. William MacDonald, superintendent of the D. & C. Detroit division, said witnesses aboard the cruise ship told of seeing Stone race along the deck after slashing his throat.

Morse at, Dorchester, and assault and battery on the girl and her father, John.

Brown pleaded not guilty and was held in $10,000 bail for the grand jury by Judge William Lynch.

The girl told the court she was in bed when he heard a knock on the door. When she asked who it was, she said a man's voice replied, "detective."

She opened the door and a man, allegedly Brown, grabbed her and clapped a hand over her mouth as she screamed. Her father, aroused from sleep by the struggle, ran to her aid and traded punches with the intruder until he was knocked to the floor by a haymaker.

The intruder tried to flee, but ran instead into a closet and the father slammed the door shut. He was unable to hold the door, however, and the stranger burst out and escaped by diving through the window screen in a bedroom.

Neighbors who heard the battle gave chase and the man was finally captured in Seaver st. and placed under arrest by Patrolman Martin Curran and Frank Pierce. The girl's face was badly scratched and her father's face was battered by punches.

Biggest B-29 Fleet To Cross Atlantic

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 7 (AP)—The U. S. Army Air Force said today the largest flight of B-29 Superfortresses ever to cross the Atlantic arrived unopposed in Germany Saturday. (The flight left Westover Field Thursday).

Twenty-one of the Superfortresses arrived at Giebelstadt Airport, 50 miles southeast of Frankfurt. Six others were said to have been delayed en route, four at Goose Bay, Labrador, one in Scotland and one at Stuttgart.

The flight was described as a routine training mission.

MAINE HANGAR FIRE
BRUNSWICK, Me., July 7 (AP)—Fire today destroyed four planes and a hangar at Douglas Field on the Portland-Brunswick road, causing damage estimated unofficially at $20,000.

Mrs. Eugene Williams offers Folsom Prison bloodhound a doll to smell in the 58-hour hunt for Wayne Bowers, 3, of Big Bear, Cal., who was found unhurt four miles from his home by Marine searchers. Bloodhounds were unable to pick up the trail after losing it at a point where the youngster toddled across a highway. At a hospital, his condition was described as "fairly good." He had been feared kidnapped.

Missing Manila Actress Hunted in Hollywood

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 7 (INS)—Private detectives today were searching for Maria Sammarco, 21-year-old Manila-born motion picture actress and former Jap prisoner of war, who disappeared last Thursday.

According to her brother, Enrico de Luzuriaga, who drove her from their home on Thursday morning to a studio in Culver City, she was scheduled to see her doctor later that afternoon.

"Maria has had trouble with her right eye ever since she was liberated from a Jap prison camp in Manila," De Luzuriaga told me. "Her doctor, Bernard Pearson, said it was due to a serious nervous condition."

The young actress, who is under contract to Ralph Cohn and Buddy Rogers, was forced by her captors to witness the murder of her younger brother and sister shortly after the fall of Manila.

When I called Dr. Pearson, he confirmed De Luzuriaga's statement that Maria was to see him for a long overdue checkup on Thursday, but she never appeared at his office.

At the studio, where she was on call Saturday for scenes with Claudette Colbert in "Sleep My Love," she had failed to turn in her wardrobe or to communicate with the production office.

INJURED IN FIRE LEAP

Leaping 30 feet to escape flames that swept his third-floor room in Newland st. South End, George Matthews, 60, suffered several broken ribs and cuts and bruises. He is at City Hospital.

Green Sees Rent Control Last Curb to NCL

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—AFL Pres. William Green declared rent control is "the only remaining tool" to curb further drastic rises in the cost of living for the nation's workers.

The labor leader urged all State Federations of Labor to press for the appointment of Labor representatives on local advisory boards to be set up under the Rent Control Act.

Exiled King Umberto Seeking N. E. Estate as Family Home

Italy's ousted King Umberto, after a year of exile in Portugal, is seeking to enter this country with his queen and four children and make his home in New England. It was disclosed today.

Mrs. Walter Nones said agents for Umberto have contacted her at her rambling estate on Mill Hill rd., Southport, Ct. She offers the 17-room stone house with two cottages and several acres of land for sale on the general market some time ago.

Mrs. Nones, widow of a ball-bearing manufacturer of Stamford, Ct., said Umberto's representatives have entered into negotiations with her for purchase of the estate. She said the deal has not yet been completed and declined to go into details about the negotiations.

The estate is located in southwestern Connecticut near the New York area.

Accompanying him here would be his royal consort, tall and blonde Queen Marie Jose, sister of the Belgian King Leopold, and their four children, Princess Maria Pia, 12; the 9-year-old Prince of Naples, called "Victorio" or "Toio"; Marie "Ella" Gabriela, 6; and Maria Beatriz, 3, known as "Titi."

Umberto is the son of the "Little

King," Vittorio Emanuele III, head of the 900-year-old House of Savoy, who has been living in exile in Egypt since he abdicated on May 9, 1946.

The son ruled a little more than a month on the abdication of his father, and left Italy by air on June 13, 1946, when a popular referendum turned out the monarchy in favor of a republic.

No statement has yet come from Portugal, where the tall, distinguished appearing monarch is living quietly with his family in a small villa.

McCormack Asks House to Curb Prices

Cong. John W. McCormack, Democratic whip in the House, called on the people of the nation today to demand that Congress enact appropriate legislation to halt the rising cost of living, which he asserted was the most serious problem in the nation today.

"As a result of the recent rent legislation," he said, "the average man's cost of living can be increased another 15 per cent in rent alone and this on top of all the other skyrocketing prices."

"We know now that some of the controls on food prices should have been continued despite the demise of OPA. The Republican Party, the National Ass'n of Manufacturers and the American Meat Institute definitely promised last year that within 60 days after controls were removed from foodstuffs the supply of meat and other commodities would be so plentiful prices would be lower than under OPA ceilings."

"Those who called for the people's elimination of OPA are now trying to shift and deceive the people again by saying that prices are lower now than they were under the 'black market.' Last year controls were removed at their insistence. They have failed to keep their promise of lower prices — anyone who attempts to buy food can testify to that."

"It is time our people demanded that Congress take action to meet the high cost of living that is eating up all their wages."

"The Republican-controlled Congress is a dollar Congress. Legislative action this year proves the 'Old Guard' Republicans are back in control and are determined to make the wage earner once again the 'Forgotten Man.'"

M'Mahon Accents Need of A-Bomb

WASHINGTON, July 7 (INS) — Sen. McMahon (D.) of Connecticut, declared that the United States must continue the production of atomic bombs "in the present state of the world."

McMahon recalled that he had proposed four alternatives if it were impossible to reach an international agreement for control of atomic energy.

These included a stockpile of atomic bombs, starting war immediately on the assumption that it was inevitable, operating an international control agency without Russia, and setting a deadline on adoption of a world plan.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, King Features Synd., Inc.

IT WAS INEVITABLE that numerous books would be written about Franklin D. Roosevelt once death made him history. Those who assume that history is a kindly badly as one likes about anyone else.

This position is untenable and can be ignored. The only person who tries to enforce such an un-historical view concerning Franklin D. Roosevelt is the Broadway columnist Walter Winchell, who has made himself the defender of the former President's reputation.

And the record will surely change from year to year as more material appears. For instance, when the Churchill memoirs, the Konoys diaries, the archives of the State Department, and let us say, of the Soviet Foreign Office become available to history, Roosevelt, as a figure on the stage of man's affairs, will be very different from what he is today, for better or for worse.

The assumption that one must speak only well of the dead is, of course, not really believed. The very men who insist upon this rule denounce both Hitler and Mussolini, who are just as dead as anyone else. What they really mean is that one must speak well of their beloved dead—but as

WHEN Elliott Roosevelt's book made his father out to be untruthful and tricky, there were some, like myself, who felt that a son should never have done that to his father. Elliott tried to get into the Roosevelt book market early with some sensational material which proved on the whole unattractive and could not be accepted on his say-so.

Much of it has to do with Winston Churchill, and as he is writing his memoirs, the phases that Elliott covered will soon appear in better and more graceful form.

Frances Perkins' book was kindly and interesting. One awaits Harold Ickes' volume, for beyond doubt he will add to human knowledge. The Morgenthau monstrosity seems to have met with foul weather, although I assume that in some form it will sooner or later appear.

Harry Hopkins' book by Robert Sherwood will be a valuable document, although not as valuable as it might have been had Harry Hopkins lived to complete his work. There will be other books, friendly, unfriendly, fair and unfair, objective, subjective, all kinds.

A century from now Roosevelt will settle down to his correct proportions like Julius Caesar, Napoleon Bonaparte, Talleyrand or Chester Arthur.

All of this is preliminary to some comments on Jim Farley's articles in Collier's Magazine. It is curious that certain unobjective adulators of Franklin D. Roosevelt assume that Farley is, for one reason or another, under obligation to remain eternally silent because Roosevelt permitted him to manage Mr. Roosevelt's politics so well that he made him President in 1932, when by all odds Al Smith should have been nominated.

No man who played the role that Farley did is obligated to remain permanently silent.

THE QUESTION IS, does Farley speak truthfully? Is he a liar? Walter Winchell bases his contention that Farley is untruthful on unpublished, unquoted, undocumented data said to emanate from Harry Hopkins. This cannot be accepted on the say-so of Walter Winchell or anyone else until the documents are published. When that happens, we shall be able to appraise their value.

Farley, long before these articles appeared, spoke of his memoranda, written each day, as conversations occurred, as events took place. It is true that Walter Trohan, a newspaperman of the highest integrity, assisted Farley in selecting and preparing these memoranda for publication. It is not true that Farley has produced what in the vernacular is a ghosted book—that is, something that somebody else wrote for him. The documentary evidence is against that.

It is ridiculous for any man to assume that he is Joshua who can make the sun stand in its course. The Roosevelt story will out—and it will in some phases make delightful and in other phases ugly reading. No Broadway columnist will stop history in its course to satisfy a private, inadequately appraised penchant.

Legion Auxiliary Opens Fight For Military Training Law

By DAN MARKEL
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, July 7—Women of the American Legion Auxiliary, desperately concerned over the nation's security, intend to keep "hen-pecking" Congress until it votes on universal military training.

Mrs. Norton H. Pearl, national auxiliary president, said here today Mrs. Pearl was to be the first witness before the House armed services committee when hearings on UMF legislation resume.

Nine hundred thousand women patriots of the Legion auxiliary view universal training as "practical preparedness" which should be inaugurated now, Mrs. Pearl asserted.

Each has a husband, brother or son who answered the nation's war-time call to duty.

"Many lost sons in World War II," Mrs. Pearl amplified.

"Many more had sons and husbands who were maimed, and who believe today their loved ones would have had a better chance to come home unscathed had this nation afforded them universal military training before the war."

The national auxiliary president hopes that the 900,000 Legion women will not have to keep on "hen-pecking" Congress.

"The 900,000 women of the Legion auxiliary want to know where their representatives in Congress stand, and the auxiliary wants to know where they all stand."

Mrs. Pearl emphasized that there are still aggressor nations which understand only strength and force.

"Only through our remaining strong can we receive these nations' respect. Only by our strength can we avoid the constant threat of war."

"The only democratic way to maintain that strength and safeguard the United States is for every young man to participate equally in a national training program."

Police Save Woman's Assailant From Mob

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 7 (INS)—A brutally-beaten Negro, John Fleming, 40, was hospitalized in Knoxville General Hospital and placed under police protection after an alleged attempted criminal attack on a white woman.

Capt. Elmer Dyke, who led an officers' rescue squad, said that the Negro was saved from a crowd of 200 maddened persons as he raced blindly along the river front. Police said he had lost the sight of an eye and suffered severe bruises and cuts before breaking loose from the crowd.

Lifeguard Rescues Four First Day on Lake Job

METHUEN, July 7—Value of lifeguard service at Forest Lake Bathing Beach was underscored when Paul Bernardin, 19, of Haverhill st., Lawrence, rescued four from drowning on his first day as a lifeguard. He was assigned to the bench by the Methuen Chapter of the Red Cross.

AMAZING NEW REDUCING PLAN! Lose as 10 Lbs in 10 DAYS

No Harmful Drugs . . . No Laxative . . . No Exercise . . . No Tiring Routine

If you are over-weight and flabby, you can lose weight amazingly effortlessly. There is no need to punish yourself with back-breaking exercises—no need to use dangerous reducing drugs. You can eat regularly and adequately because with the CARLTON PROGRAM you don't cut out any meals, potatoes, meats or butter—you just cut down on them and take CARLTON CAPSULES.

Over-weight men and women who have nothing organically wrong with them can get back to normal weight simply and quickly by following the CARLTON REDUCING PROGRAM and taking CARLTON CAPSULES to assure intake of essential factors (no salts, no thyroid, no harmful drugs, no laxatives). The instructions say: Take CARLTON CAPSULES with meals, then eat a delicious CARLTON REDUCING low-calorie meal. Results may amaze you, because following the CARLTON REDUCING PROGRAM will cause unsightly pounds to melt away like magic—leaving no saggy, flabby or broken-down tissue.

Excess fat is unsightly and unhealthy—so don't put off getting a two weeks' supply of CARLTON CAPSULES for only $1.98 with the understanding that if you are not satisfied with the results, you have the privilege of returning the empty carton and we will return your money. Mail orders sent postpaid.

2 weeks' supply — $1.98

Test Electric Sleep For Mentally Ill

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7 (AP)—Electrically induced sleep, which keeps a patient unconscious for seven to 15 minutes, offers a hopeful means of treating one form of insanity, say two University of California medical researchers.

This treatment, called electro-narcosis, is not new, but has not yet been used sufficiently for doctors to know exactly what can be expected of it. It is a modification of an older form of treatment, electroshock, in which a heavier charge of current, applied for a fraction of a second, knocks the patient unconscious and throws him into convulsions. The researchers, Dr. Karl M. Bowman, head of the University's psychiatric clinic, and Dr. Alexander Simon, an associate, reported the recovery of five out of 31 persons who took the treatments.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agr. School

Q—Can wild blueberry bushes be improved?
A—In some cases where high bush blueberries grow naturally, they can be improved by clearing out the brush. Fertilize with nitrogen fertilizer and prune out old branches. This gives better results than transplanting.

Q—What is causing the main stems of our pine trees to die?
A—This damage is caused by the grub of the pine weevil. Cut off the dead part as soon as it shows. A side branch will grow up into a new leader.

Q—Should the side shoots of corn be pulled off to increase the yield?
A—This practice is not necessary. It just means extra labor which could be spent on some other job in the garden.

Q—Our rhododendrons have very poor foliage.
A—Probably a lack of plant food. Try about one pound of complete fertilizer to 40 sq. ft. of bed.

Q—What is the cause of leaves on our McIntosh apple turning yellow?
A—Apple scab, brought on by too much rain. The tree should have been sprayed earlier to control this disease.

Q—When should we stop cutting the asparagus bed?
A—Stop at once. You should have done so a week or ten days ago. Give the bed a good application of complete fertilizer to build up reserve strength for the next cutting season.

Hear About Fears Of 'Slave' Maid

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 7 (AP)—Negro housemaid Dora Jones, 58, resumes the witness stand today to tell more of the fear of jail and hell which the federal government charges were used by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wesley Ingalls to make her their slave. The Negroess testified Thursday the fear was caused by threats made by Mrs. Ingalls because of an affair of more than 30 years ago between Dora and her mistress' first husband.

The government attorneys said they may complete their case today. Atty. Clifford Fitzgerald stated the defense would probably take the rest of the week, the third of the trial.

Disc Puzzle Spreads To 38 States, Canada

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7 (AP)—From one end of the country to the other, new reports of disc-like "flying saucers" skimming through the skies today added to the mystery which has baffled the nation since June 25.

The latest tabulation showed the mystery objects had been reported seen in 38 states, the District of Columbia and in Canada. Yesterday they were reported as seen in more than a dozen states, and in southwestern Ontario.

The Oregon National Guard aerial patrol planned to send a plane today to a spot near St. Maries, Idaho, where a woman said 10 persons saw eight of the discs disappear in timber on July 3.

Most observers agreed the objects were round or oval. Guesses as to their size have ranged from that of a five-room house or large airplane to one description of "a silver ball, six inches in diameter."

AN ESSENTIAL SAFEGUARD

THE PETITION to Congress by the major departments of the Federal Government for permanent power to make loyalty to the United States a condition of Federal employment should have instant and complete approval.

It is incomprehensible to most of the American people that their government has only temporary power to thus secure itself against disloyalty, granted by Congress under the urgency of war.

When these war powers lapse, unless Congress has in the meantime enacted permanent legislation for the same purpose, none of the principal agencies of the Federal Government will have any legal recourse against subversive and treasonable activities within the ranks of their own employees comparable with the emergency powers which were deemed necessary and vital during the war.

Since disloyalty and subversion and treason among persons holding Federal employment in peacetime can be fully as dangerous and destructive to national security as in war, it would be an act of singular stupidity to let these war powers lapse without provision for continued protection. It is the avoidance of such an act for which the several departments have now petitioned.

AMONG THESE departments are the State, War and Navy departments and the Atomic Energy Commission.

In all of them, or in any one of them, subversive and treasonable activities, conducted without legal recourse, could deprive the country of all prestige and authority in its efforts to prevent future war, and could render the country impotent in the event of war.

"The urgent need for early enactment of this proposed legislation," as the departments have explained in a joint appeal to Congress, "is attested to by the very delicate nature of the functions and activities of the several departments enumerated in the bill."

"The national security demands that the greatest care must be exercised in retaining only tried and tested persons."

"SUBVERSIVE ACTION, WORKING FROM WITHIN, CAN SERIOUSLY JEOPARDIZE THIS SECURITY AT A TIME WHEN EVERY MEANS AND PRECAUTION MUST BE EMPLOYED TO STEER THE COURSE OF GOVERNMENT THROUGH ITS MANY INTRICATE NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL ACTIVITIES."

UNDER THE permanent powers requested, as under the temporary war powers soon to lapse, the Federal agencies responsible for national defense and international relations could instantly discharge any employee of either known or doubtful loyalty to the United States.

The utter necessity and urgency of such a power, permanently vested in these departments, is emphasized by Secretary of State Marshall's disclosure of the recent discharge of ten State Department employees found to have been at least indirectly in contact with agents of foreign governments. WITHOUT THE POWER TO WEED OUT DISLOYALISTS, THE STATE DEPARTMENT WOULD BE A HOLLOW SHELL FROM ANY STANDPOINT OF NATIONAL SAFETY, AS WOULD THE WAR AND NAVY DEPARTMENTS AND THE ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION.

The bill thus urgently offered, and so desperately needed, has been referred to the Post Office and Civil Service Committee of the House of Representatives.

It follows the recommendations of President Truman's Commission on Federal Employee Loyalty, and IS SUPPORTED BY EVERY CONSIDERATION OF NATIONAL INTEREST AND INTEGRITY.

Surely the one determining condition of employment by the Federal Government should be the ABSOLUTE and UNQUESTIONED LOYALTY of the employee to the United States.

Any deviation from this rule endangers and undermines the peace and security of the people of the United States.

TOO MANY PEOPLE who are tipped at as if the customer owed them the money for weeks. No thanks are forthcoming; they practically snatch the money out of the customer's hands. If the tip is not as large as expected, they give the tipper a surly glare. A tip is not an obligation. It is an expression of good will for special services rendered. The resentment against the tip situation is growing. If many of those dependent on tips do not change their manner they are going to find their incomes sharply cut. Incidentally, a person who bows and scrapes to a large tipper and is arrogant to a small tipper is the worst kind of a snob.

Then tell us how many heavyweights, who weighed in at over 200 pounds for the title bout, have won the world's championship. Also, next to Bob Fitzsimmons, who was the lightest heavyweight champion?

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—Am a newcomer from Australia. Please tell me which of your boxers was known as "The Durable Dane." A—Battling Nelson. Q—Can you play parchesi? A—I know the game but haven't played it lately. Have been going for backgammon. My girl friend has beaten me 12 times straight at this game. I am in a slump. It is costing me money. Q—Who were the stars of "Wine, Woman and Song," the burlesque show that ran over a year at the Circle Theater, Manhattan? A—If they were not Bonita, Lew Hearn, Alexander Carr and Orville Harrold. I am stuck for a stogie. But I wouldn't care if I was. I have plenty of stogies. I just won a box of the same from a fellow who challenged me to name "quack as a flush," the capitals of Idaho, North Dakota and South Dakota.

LOT OF DOG: A Californian has a Great Dane named Midget. It is 13 months old and weighs 170 pounds. Boy, that's a lot of dog. I had a Great Dane once but I never weighed him. He was a marvelous dog. Gentle as a kitten. That is, except when on watch dog duty. He really took that job seriously.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: The record for the high price paid for a dog is soon to be broken. A syndicate of six British sportsmen has put up $120,000 to pay for the best racing greyhound in Eire. . . . Will Rogers discussing the possibility of a permanent world peace, once said the head men of the nations starting a war should be made to fight it out in their union suits. That was about the time Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini were first acting up.

PILOTS: An investigation of one of the recent horrible plane accidents revealed the pilot was in no way responsible. This particular pilot survived the accident. He was on hand at the investigation to speak for himself. In many accidents where the pilot perished he has been blamed for the disaster. Pining the responsibility of air disasters on the dead pilot has been too prevalent. In the future the pilots' association should battle against this strongly.

ASIDES: "Helen Jacobs, Albee Noble and Bill Tilden played their first tennis at Golden Gate Park, San Francisco," says a sportscribe. Maybe the first two named did, but Tilden started in Philadelphia.

... Ever hear of a double wedding of mother and daughter? Mrs. Joan Turton, a 39-year-old widow and her 21-year-old daughter Joan, of London, Eng., were the brides in a recent double wedding.

HORSES & WOMEN: That women should emphasize what they believe to be their good points cannot be denied. But shouldn't they do it in subtle fashion? Take these girls with good looking shoulders who are wearing that daylight version of a strapless evening gown. They look ridiculous.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate

NEW YORK, July 7—All right, here we go again — In January, 1936, Mrs. Frederick Kettner of New York decided to print a tribute to her husband on his 50th birthday. Kettner, born in Austria but now a citizen of our country, is an exponent of a relatively new ism called biosophy.

Westbrook Pegler

You may find a clue to his stuff in the fact that he did a book called "Spinzoza the Biosopher," if you know anything about Spinzoza.

This book was published by the Roerich Museum Press and carried an introduction by Nicholas Konstantin Roerich, Henry Wallace's friend and, for a long time, the landlord of Congressman Sam Bloom, until recently chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Sol says he never would let old Roerich look him in the eye because he might hypnotize him. But Wallace sent Roerich and a bunch of his friends prowling over China and Inner Mongolia in search of grass seed for the Department of Agriculture at our expense.

Only when the old boy with the two-legged beard was that far away did Henry fire him by cable.

Then the New Deal gave Roerich the income tax treatment, found him guilty of delinquency, non-payment and pink toothbrush, and put him behind the eight-ball over in India. He has never come back and Sol says he heard he is dead.

WELL, MRS. KETTNER prints this tribute to her hero and it is published by the great Guru on the Lamassary Press and in it she says this:

During a vacation trip to Bar Harbor, Dr. Kettner attended a lecture by old Henry Morgenthau, Sr., the father of Roosevelt's Secretary of the Treasury, and formerly our Ambassador to Turkey. Morgenthau, Sr., had developed the pose of those self-elected philo-ophical elders among us who go around leaking love from every pore and prattling platitudes.

We have had quite a few of those. Kettner, his wife tells us, was "strongly attracted by the evident spirituality of the speaker," and buttonholed him after the meeting. It paid off, too.

The Morgenthau "graciously invited Dr. and Mrs. Kettner to visit their beautiful home in Bar Harbor," which is pretty nice going from the standpoint of comfort and rations, and the old boy "expressed deep interest in the biosophical idea of character and peace education."

Later he wrote two articles for the Biosophical Review, which is Kettner's publication.

KETTNER AND ROERICHI had a great deal in common. Roerich invited him to install his biosophical and Spinzoza outfit in the house on the Drive.

If you want an idea of the stuff the old boy dished off for Kettner, this will give you one: "The rights of man are reaching their estate without a French revolution or the introduction of Bolshevism or Communism."

And you might understand what sort of government he was driving at when you read that: "Today we behold the beginning of the fulfillment: the nation has assumed the role of its brother's keeper." That was 1934. Roosevelt was beginning to show his hand.

Morgenthau said the "real lovers of mankind never wondered what ought to be done" to frustrate those enemies of man who had always preached "each for himself" and thus kept the masses disunited and demoralized.

"They insisted on the abolition of privileges, the extension of freedom and we have lived to see their aims embodied in the duties of government."

THE PIECE was a prophecy of the Roosevelt rule which just fell short of that fulfillment proposed by Mrs. Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins when they demanded that one and all of us be drafted for civilian labor, and sent wherever any New Deal commissar should direct us, without regard for family ties or Christian morals, and that civilians be promiscuously billeted as boarders in all our homes with particular emphasis, however, on the homes of the well-to-do and the very rich, but excepting, of course, the homes of the Rooseveltes.

I HAVE NOTICED that all other newspapers than those which print these dispatches have ignored the story of Roerich, but have thoroughly covered and quoted Wallace's speeches and printed the personal judgments of professional opinionarians writing out of Washington who tell us that Wallace is gentle, kind, honest and brave.

If he is so honest, why doesn't he tell us what his relationship was with Roerich? If he is so brave why doesn't he show the courage of his religious convictions and condemn them to damnation instead of babbling a routine about peace, as though everyone against him wanted war?

HOLLYWOOD, July 7—Laraine Day, who has had enough publicity to last a lifetime—at least, that's what she feels—considers it to be better not to make "Champagne for Everybody" for Sam Coslow, after all the talk that she insisted upon going to see the Brooklyn Dodgers play.

Laraine Day

It seemed an awful lot of money to give up, $125,000, but she's getting more than that for "The Loves of Madeleine," which will be made in Paris—in English, of course. Not only will she get the $125,000, but she'll also receive a percentage. Furthermore, her contract stipulates that all her scenes must be shot within a 30-day period. She reports for work in Paris, Nov. 15.

I can't help but feel that Laraine was sensible not to do the Coslow picture, since there was so much trouble and so many words bandied back and forth.

SUCH A WONDERFUL story behind the news that John Hubbard has his doctor's okay to accept the lead opposite Elyse Knox in "Linda Be Good" for Maltby Kemp.

After four years of almost complete blindness, Hubbard has recovered his sight, and there is no longer any obstacle in the way of his career.

Just what caused the serious infection of his eyes was a mystery to the finest specialists in this country. But he contracted it while serving as a rifleman with the 88th Infantry Division in Italy.

These past four years have been torture for John who was going so well in Hollywood before optical darkness almost blacked out the world for him. Penicillin, the miracle drug, worked the miracle here.

I know all the men who were in the service will be rooting for Hubbard's comeback.

SATURDAY Virginia Mayo became a grandma and a bride all at the same time.

She married Michael O'Shea, who had just received word that his daughter, Mrs. William T. Rosen gave birth to a son.

Mrs. Rosen is O'Shea's daughter by his first marriage. He was wed to Mrs. O'Shea for 20 years before she divorced him last month in Connecticut.

THE BLOW Mary Kirk Brown landed on Betty Bunetta in that unscheduled ringside bout at Madison Square Garden knocked Betty out, at least out of her job as secretary to the police commissioner at Passaic, New Jersey.

No, she wasn't fired. But when a lady gets her picture plastered in so many papers she becomes good publicity bait. Some of the New York merchants thought Betty so photogenic that they offered her modeling jobs. Such is fame!

The moral, I suppose, is that if you are looking for advancement, get involved with someone whose sure-fire copy, like M. K. Brown. However, if Hollywood offered Miss Bunetta a job you would hear the squawk from coast to coast.

poll of the box office winners of the year. These are the "cash" selections from the ticket buyers themselves:

Among the men—Bing Crosby and Tyrone Power were tied for top spot followed by Cary Grant, Fred Astaire, Bob Hope, Clark Gable, Danny Kaye and Frank Sinatra.

For the ladies—Ingrid Bergman leads comfortably. Then, Greer Garson, Judy Garland, Gene Tierney, Lana Turner, Myrna Loy, Rita Hayworth.

William Wyler leads the directors with "Best Years of Our Lives," followed by Alfred Hitchcock, Stuart Heisler, Hal Walker, Michael Curtiz, John Farrow, Victor Fleming, Norman MacLeod.

Surprises are that Van Johnson and Alan Ladd are below the first eight men.

JOHN GARFIELD has reservations for Europe for Aug. 15. He expects to be finished with "Gentleman's Agreement" by that time. If he isn't he'll go later.

He'll head straight for Italy to get started on his pet project, which he has been keeping secret. He will star in his own film production of Ben Johnson's play, "Volpone," the same one which created such a stir last year when it was presented at the actor's lab. John will play the role of Mosca, of course, and the film will all be made in color in Venice, its natural background.

Garfield and the children will live in New York while John is in Europe.

IT'S ALL UP to Lawrence Tierney whether or not Vivi Stokes Taylor finally says "yes." If he behaves himself, stays on the wagon, and gets in no more café brawls, the lady of his heart will marry him. He's been courting the socialite divorcee for the past year.

When she heard that reformation had set in, she came to Hollywood to give him every encouragement, so it must be love.

As I said before, if ever a boy had chances by the dozens, it's Tierney.

SNAPS SHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Vincente Minnelli has presented Judy Garland with a beach house at La Tunis. And to all those who said they are separating, here's news—Mr. and Mrs. Minnelli are getting along beautifully.

The Darryl Zanuck's croquet party was really to the death for honors. That I should live to see croquet Hollywood's favorite pastime. Lana Turner and Tyrone Power were among those who encouraged the players. Van Johnson and Evie came in after their own tennis session at home. The Douglas Fairbanks, (Mary Lee expects her baby in September), the Reginald Gardiner and scores of others helped Virginia and Darryl open their new croquet courts, which, you'll admit, is something new under the sun in our town.

The Dune Clarks have decided they can't live with or without each other, but the latest decision is that they are better off apart.

After all these years, Charles Coburn has bought himself a house. All his pals are wondering if he and Ada Adams, his girl friend of many years, are getting married.

Ann Sothern spent the week-end with her daughter at Del Monte. I wish I could report that there's a reconciliation between her and Bob Sterling, but there seems to be no chance at this writing. Bob is on location for an RKO movie.

Ann Sheridan is wearing a new coat that will make the girls drool. It's a black kidskin trench coat, and sets her figure off gorgeously.

And while we're on the subject of coats, Marie MacDonald today received a mink coat and a 15-carat diamond from Harry Karl, whom she'll marry in August. The ring was given her at a birthday party in her honor at the Mocambo and came as a surprise.

Wonder if it's true that a certain columnist's wife will marry a Washington biggie when she gets her divorce? Sally Eilers hosted a barbecue with Ben Lyon acting as chef. That boy can cook steaks for me anytime. Larry Joe Brown, the Hal Roaches, Bebe Daniels, Harriet Parsons, DeWitt Bodine, Wynn Rocamora and Harry Moore were a few of those who admired Sally's cute little doll's house.

Sid Luft and Dorothea Richmond, the local dress shop owner, are getting around together.

MONDAY MUSINGS, or what a difference a few years make! Maria Montez, a young Hollywood box office queen of the newer star crop was not prominent in the cinema when a half-million dollar estate called Pickfair was the Buckingham Palace of Southern California. Pickfair was so called because it was a combination of the first syllables in the stage names of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, two able and caste-conscious actors who achieved enough money and power to reign socially over their fellows . . . Some scoffers who "knew them when" used to get some fun out of referring to Pickfair as "Smuhli". . . This latter merger of syllables was meaningless enough when spelled backward or forward, but to the cognoscenti who possibly were jealous of the tremendous successes scored by Miss Pickford and Fairbanks, it had the merit of being based on something more than pretense . . . "Smuhli" was the first syllable of Miss Pickford's real surname, Smith, and Fairbanks's real life monicker, Uhlman.

LIFE AND human nature and Hollywood being what they are, however, there were few cynics or sneers who dared express as much as a critical whisper of Queen Mary or King Doug . . . Biggest box office attractions in their era; Mary and Doug were powers, too, in the management of one of the most important studios and releasing outfits, United Artists . . . It was more because of their acknowledged positions as the social leaders of the Hollywood "400" than because of their artistic or business prowess that Doug and Mary were regarded with true awe . . . Any good history of Hollywood must tell that Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks were the first to take openly what had become a classless industry, the movies, and to make of it a small social empire with as many castes almost, and from rajah to untouchable, as India . . . Doug and Mary got away with it, moreover, and invitations to Pickfair were prized and scarce.

AS ONE WHO has had one including dinner and a tour of the joint, there is no background for envy in about the essay on the mediaeval history of Hollywood . . . But Miss Maria Montez, of the newer star crop, did something the flashback . . . We felt it necessary to describe Pickfair as it was for refreshment and to be sure that we were not overestimating the temerity of the brashly courageous Miss Maria Montez . . . For when Pickfair was Hollywood's Buckingham Palace the Crown Prince was Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

SOMEWHAT like a more authentic prince of a more real realm, young Doug abdicated for the woman who, at the time, he loved. Her name was Miss Joan Crawford, and she was a product of a prairie town and America's great middle-class. Young Doug's father and Miss Pickford, his stepmother, made no secret at the time of their mixed emotions of grave disappointment tinged with consternation at his marriage. Their few friends spread the word of the King and Queen's frowning attitude toward this alliance of young Doug's.

BUT YOUNG DOUG continued to rule in the hearts of the family's loyal Hollywood subjects as the dashing, virile, handsome Crown Prince of the Pickfair line . . . Well, Miss Maria Montez the other day heard a rumor that Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., was to be co-starred with her in a picture for which she already under contract . . . Miss Maria Montez wrote a tart little note to her producer . . . It informed that high-placed gentleman that if what she had heard was true—if young Doug were to be starred along with herself in a picture now nearly ready to shoot—she, Maria Montez, would SUE!

MORE MUSINGS: This is an important week for Boston business. On the agenda is a decision for immediate action on off-the-street parking, the sites to be used and the type of carhousing (cage garage, underground, ramp garage or all three) . . . It was heart-warming to see the familiar by line "Jack Conway" in the sports columns again . . . Another Jack Conway, Jack Junior, has come along since the old man took to the bench for his first layoff in many years . . . Young Jack has plenty of promise, too . . . The Conway newspaper line is one that readers will be happy to have perpetuated.

WASHINGTON, July 7—The spook speaks—or, the ghostwriter goes west:

Our industrious literary wraith, Mr. Walter Trohan, who has been ghostwriting the memoirs of James A. Farley, has been taking quite a beating. It seems Washington still has a few New Dealers who do not take kindly to his ectoplasmic output.

Because of this Mr. Trohan has been yearning for a change of venue. Consequently, he may accept an invitation to hide out in Chicago until things blow over.

The invitation was extended by George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears who sometimes play football with our Washington Redskins. Mr. Halas promised Mr. Trohan he could assure him of nice companionship.

"Next Wednesday, for instance, will be an interesting day," wrote Mr. Halas. "On that day I clash with Governor Green and Senator C. W. Vawter Brooks on the green at the Skokie Country Club. You can come along and caddy."

"Well, I see by the papers that you are taking quite a beating around. As your spiritual mentor I wish to proffer one piece of advice. Always remember the old Latin proverb: "Stinkibus non carborundum," which translated means: "Don't let the stinkers grind you down."

REGISTRATION of lobbyists, as required by law, began on Aug. 15, last year. At noon Saturday, when the registration desk in the Capitol closed for the week-end, 821 had registered.

I find this astounding. If anybody had tried to tell me there were only 821 lobbyists in Washington I would have laughed them to scorn—which is a place I always laugh people to when they ask directions.

I would have sworn they numbered as the sands of the sea having seen veritable dust storms of them in hotel lobbies. Maybe the average lobbyist just looks like a crowd.

But here's the really weird thing. By definition, a lobbyist is one engaged in trying to influence legislation. Yet a careful check of witnesses who have appeared before congressional committees in support of, or in opposition to, impending legislation, has failed to disclose a single registered lobbyist among them!

THE LOBBYISTS are required to state how much they are paid for their efforts. I guess there can't be a lobbyist's union because there is no uniformity of wages. The highest salary admitted to date $55,000 a year paid to Purcell L. Smith by the National Association of Electric Companies. Next is $40,000 a year paid to J. Carter Fort by the Association of American Railroads.

After those two there is a big drop. In fact more than a score of the registrants have taken oath they perform their lobbying for nothing.

SEVENTY-FIVE PERSONS are registered as paid lobbyists for labor unions. About the highest paid of this lot is Fred A. Tobin who admits to drawing $100 a month from the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers.

Lobbyist Tobin, oddly enough, is the son of old Dan Tobin, czar of the union. But it stands to reason he must have gotten the job without his old man's consent because what father would ever agree to his son telling the world he was a lobbyist?

NEW YORK, July 7—Hollywood's new mystery combination is made up of Irene Selznick and Cary Grant.

Cary Grant

Some bet it's business, other anop-ers swear it's romance . . . The Robert Taylors have started proceedings to adopt twins . . . Warners' battle to get Al Jolson under contract has resulted in them releasing a haul of his old films as "perusers" . . . Item for statisticians: Charlie Barnett and his fifth wife, Rita Merritt, have called it quits after a series of trial separations . . . Sumner Welles, former Under-Secretary of State, is on the verge of being offered another big government post . . . Jack, wife, and Eugene Smith (famous for her $40,000 jewel collection) are admiring each other's trophies. Sophie Tucker, who authored the book "Some of These Days," will be desirous to leave her ex-husband, Al Lackey, is working on one in Hollywood to be titled "One of Those Nights."

CLEVELAND, July 7 (AP)—Neighbors showed Fred Hudson a fresh approach in the art of spreading the tidings of a newborn son—his first.

Pleased as an overnight millionaire, Hudson returned home from the hospital to bathtubs the neighbors.

But he wrote off the price of cigars when he found a sign plastered on the front of the house, reading: "It's A Boy!" Clotheslines strung from trees were decorated with diapers and baby clothes. On the roof perched two dolls.

Plant Building Boom Forecast

WASHINGTON, July 7 (INS)—A federal survey disclosed that American business, exclusive of agriculture, plans to spend about $3,800,000,000 for new plants and equipment during the third quarter of 1947.

The survey, made by the Commerce Dept. and the Securities and Exchange Commission, showed $3,400,000,000 of the total bill will be spent by corporations and the remainder by unincorporated businesses.

The survey disclosed, however, that actual expenditures during the first quarter fell about 8 per cent below estimates. It was pointed out that the nation's railroads cut their proposed expenditures 25 per cent in the first three months of this year.

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IF LIKE THE "barefoot boy with cheek of tan" we could go romping over hill, over dale . . . with the dew-drenched grass caressing our tootsies in refreshing coolth and comfort and back-to-nature enjoyment . . . there would be no need of today's column.

But we're conventional, civilized gals . . . or are we? . . . and we must wear foot-hugging encasements with which to pound the pavements in pursuit of our daily labors of love and compensation. So a summer hazard presents itself . . . hot, aching feet . . . than which there is nothing more dragging down and body-baiting.

We leave the house in the morning fresh as a daisy after a night's relaxing slumber . . . ready for ensuing activities . . . but long about mid-afternoon the feet get weary and sore and it is more than the usual effort to pick 'em up and lay 'em down. And along with the aching "hoofs" comes the accompanying pained facial expression this condition induces. It is not pretty, my gal!

COOLING FOOT LOTION

If you're a slight young thing . . . with not much weight to tote around . . . the suffering isn't so bad. But the weighted gals have an acute condition to contend with in this summer hazard. Feet are apt to swell in the heat . . . but can a prepossessing young woman wear shoe-boxes?

No, indeed! It would be much wiser for both the girl and her feet . . . to resort to a remedy for summer-simmering of her tootsies. And there is a remedy for this . . . a cooling foot lotion which is as much of a boon as its name implies. Its pale, clear green color is even refreshing to look at . . . if you're predisposed to the power of suggestion.

Just later this lotion over the feet and ankles before you go out each day . . . and again in the evening . . . and smile your foot troubles away. You'll be more than delighted with the heavenly coolness and comfort it will give you and your pedal extremities. You'll feel as though you were tiptoeing . . . by proxy, of course . . . through the shaded grass of mountain-cooled niches and green valleys.

FOR WRISTS, NECK, TOO

AND . . . take a tip from me and keep a bottle in the desk drawer handy for use throughout the day on your wrists and neck. Its icy tingle will perpetuate business-girl appearance crispness and dissipate wilting.

The eternal feminine . . . which constantly urges us on to look our best . . . is apt to find the going a bit rough during the summer. And it's the girl with the fresh, crisp-as-iceberg lettuce appearance who's certain to be the cynosure of all eyes . . . both male and female. The former with an added gleam . . . the latter, we suspect, with a glint of envy.

Don't ask yourself how some other girl looks sparkling. Get a little of the crisp radiance for yourself.

For the name of this cooling lotion . . . in name and intent . . . phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, daily except weekend, or write to me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Monday, July 7, 1947

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Prepare for an unexpected and very pleasant surprise within the next six weeks. The stars promise much happiness for persons born on this date. Overcome a tendency towards impatience. It can be a great liability.

Lucky number: 7.

Lucky color: LIGHT BLUE.

Lucky flower: WHITE ROSE.

Lucky stone: PEARL.

TIRE SUMMER feet make the going a bit rough in hot weather . . . and the face usually reflects the pinched expression induced by aching pedal extremities. If you would walk on air . . . instead of on hot-cool pavements . . . treat your tootsies, as the model demonstrates, to a cooling lotion that is as much of a boon as its name implies. Its icy tingle makes for delicious comfort if used morning and night.

Meets Boy at Movies

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I have been meeting a certain fellow at the movies but have never met him on the street. I have grown to like him very much, and he also likes me. I am afraid that if I met him on the street he would change his attitude toward me. What is the best thing to do?

"BEWILDERED."

Dear "Bewildered": In the first place, don't you think it is rather a poor idea to pick up boys at the movies? It is true that nice people are occasionally met in unconventional ways, but it seems to me that, if this boy were the kind who would make a good friend, he would by this time have suggested coming to your home and taking you out in the proper way. He would hardly be content to go on simply meeting you in this haphazard fashion.

I certainly cannot see why you should think he would like you less on the street than in the movies anyhow. You would have to explain this a little more fully than you have done before I would see any sense to it.

In the meantime, I suggest that you wait until he shows signs of wanting to make your relationship more conventional before worrying about the thing one way or another.

Navy Blue for All Seasons

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

NAVY BLUE dresses used to appear with the first flowers of spring and by the time the flowers had finished their bloom, so had navy blue. Tradition had made navy strictly a one-season color.

It has taken a long time, but now at last navy blue is becoming important as a color that can be worn anytime, any place. Its rich darkness varies the eternal black that has held first place in the fashions for so long. Navy, for all its soberness of hue, holds lots of color.

The navy crepe dress designed by Mme. Mag of Paris and sketched today is especially flattering to the larger figure. It is draped across the front in a long, slanting line. The surplus drapery gives a half-bolero effect. Drawn through the heavy white scroll embroidery at one shoulder and one hip are the scarlike ends of the drapery. The skirt is pencil slim.

Bit-O-Meat Muffins Please Summer Appetites

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

UNUSUAL TASTE-TEMPTERS for summer appetites are Bit-O-Meat Muffins. That famous wheat-meat combination scores again as the mainstay around which to build the thriftest, tastiest meals. These salami-studded puffs contain the protein, B-vitamins and iron of enriched flour to add to these same valuable nutrients for which meat is such a good source. Not only do they magnify a small amount of salami that might otherwise seem insignificant, but they accent its flavor with a racy bit of horseradish and meat sauce.

To be true to their name, which is derived from a word meaning "muff," muffins should always be served hot. These Bit-O-Meat Muffins make good partners for steaming ears of corn, a crisp chilled or frozen salad and a frosty beverage.

BIT-O-MEAT MUFFINS

1 cup sifted enriched flour
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
2 tbsp. melted shortening
1/2 tsp. horseradish
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 lb. diced salami, (about 3 cups)
2 diced, hard-cooked eggs
Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg and add milk, shortening, horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, salami and eggs. Add to flour mixture, stirring until flour is moistened. Fill greased 3-inch muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) 20 minutes. Makes six 3-inch muffins or about nine 2-inch muffins.

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD

3 1/2 tbsp. flour
3 tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1-3 tsp. paprika
Few grains cayenne
2 egg yolks, well beaten
2-3 cup milk
1 tbsp. melted butter or margarine

1-3 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup orange
1/4 cup cherries
1/4 cup pineapple
1/4 cup sliced banana
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Lettuce
Mayonnaise

Mix flour, sugar and seasonings in top part of double boiler; add egg yolks and mix. Stir in milk and cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens; add butter and lemon juice, strain into bowl, beat two minutes; then cool. Cut fruits into small pieces and add to cooked mixture; fold in whipped cream. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze three to four hours, or until firm. Cut in slices and top with mayonnaise. Substitute chopped

COOL as the seagulls that wing their way across the bodice . . . is this perfect David Crystal summer afternoon dress of new sugar-cane rayon whether you choose it in white, pink or blue. There's young simplicity in its brief cuffed sleeves . . . its little round collar . . . tiny waistline and softly-full skirt. And it lends itself so admirably to dress-up accessorization for important summer evening dates.—R.M. cantaloupe, pears and plums for cherries, pineapple and banana, if desired. Makes six to eight servings.

MINTED FRUIT SALAD

2 1/2 cup diced fresh pineapple
2 1/2 cup sliced bananas
3/4 cup cubed oranges or peaches
3/4 cup diced cantaloupe
3/4 cup marshmallows, quartered
1 1/2 tbsp. powdered sugar
1 1/2 cups ginger ale
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 bunch mint, minced
Lettuce
Cantaloupe balls
Mint sprigs

Lightly combine pineapple, bananas, oranges or peaches, cantaloupe, marshmallows and sugar. Mix ginger ale and lemon juice and pour over fruits; chill about 2 hours in refrigerator. To serve, drain off ginger ale, lightly mix mint into fruits and serve on lettuce; garnish with cantaloupe balls and sprigs of mint. Makes 6 salads.

That Middle-Aged Introduction

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: What is the best form of introduction to use when I introduce two women to each other, each being in that age-classification known as "middle-aged" (horrible words), and neither being more distinguished than the other? To use the form "may I present" or even "may I introduce" seems to me not a tactful way of making the introduction. FRANCES.

I agree with you that the woman mentioned first in the may-I-present or may-I-introduce form of introduction may not be pleased at being given the "honor" of being the older woman to whom the younger woman must be "presented." The safest and most tactful way to make this introduction is just to mention both names in the same tone of voice.

MRS. BEECKMAN.

Blast of Nitrate Drum Injures 5

PHILADELPHIA, July 7 (AP)—A 55-gallon drum of the highly-explosive cellulose nitrate exploded yesterday as it was loaded on a freighter docked at a Delaware river pier, injuring five stevedores.

The blast started a fire in one loading shed of the vast South Philadelphia pier but a sprinkling system prevented widespread damage.

The sprinkler, installed at the government-owned pier during the war, drenched other drums of the explosive.

Port officials said the drum was being moved aboard the 10,000-ton American Moon on a fork lift when the edge of the container scraped the concrete floor of the loading shed. Sparks flew off the drum and fired the nitrate.

Keith's 'Ivy' Only Lavish Thriller

Latest in the lovely-but-evil trend is "Ivy," a lavish production based on Marie Belloc Lowndes' thriller and starring Joan Fontaine as the lady with a gift for murder. Now teaming the Keith Memorial screen, "Ivy" is more elegant than exciting, boasts more eye than ear appeal. Frankly, it just misses by reason of over-emphasis and under-scoring that cheat anticipation.

Married to Richard Ney, who can't give her anything but love, Miss Fontaine has been trifling with Patric Knowles, a successful young physician whose family stems 'way back, when tycoon Herbert Marshall loves into view. His fabulous wealth and considerable power and prestige completely mesmerize the mercenary beauty. Moving in as Fate's first aide, she poisons her husband and then identifies the young medical man as the actual murderer.

He is brought to trial before Henry Stephenson, who makes a most impressive judge, given a hanging sentence. But between them, Lucille Watson, playing his mother, and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, as a Scotland Yard inspector, save him by forcing Ivy to reveal her guilt.

Miss Fontaine, in a mouth-watering array of gorgeous period gowns, is more beautiful than believable.

Universal's mood-makers went all out to get into one, and possibly that's what is wrong with this too contrived and dated melodrama.

Don't think we don't appreciate the excellence of the photography, of Daniele Amfitheatrof's score, of the luxurious sets. It is all just too atmosphere-building and brings out our claustrophobia.

Joan Bennett In Boston Film

Joan Bennett, whose ability to project mood has resulted in some notable films, is presently represented on the RKO Boston screen by "The Woman on the Beach."

"The Woman" is played by Joan Bennett, who, exchanging her stance at the window for a stroll on the beach, maintains her now standard interpretation of a femme fatale.

Well-stacked and misbehaving. Miss Bennett, as the young and beautiful wife of a celebrated, middle-aged, blind artist (Charles Bickford), spells seduction in capital to handsome Robert Ryan's infatuated Coast Guard officer. From where we sat she appeared merely prettily petulant.

In any event, her spouse, alternately tender and violent, is insanely jealous of her. She, despite her age, so Bickford's of him because of his bitter-sweet reactions, has a certain loyalty to him because she blinded him in a drunken brawl in their early married life.

There is an unconvincing finale, with the C. G. officer, who has been doing out ways to do in the artist, persuaded the lady loves her sightless husband best of all after herself.

Renoir, who collaborated with Frank Davis on the script which was based on Mitchell Wilson's novel, "None So Blind," has achieved a certain emotional intensity and the photography and production are first-rate. But, what profit these, when the story doesn't mean anything and the characters are as vague as an unimpeachable carbon copy? P. D.

'Copacabana' on Twin Bills

A Marxman may be mad but he isn't as funny without the rest of his gang, a gander at the Carmen, Miranda-bedecked "Copacabana," now inhabiting the Paramount and Fenway screens, indicates.

Groucho, complete with eyebrow and lip lambrequins and an assortment of gags, tried awfully hard but most of the time he isn't any funnier than some of these effort-showing magazine articles he writes.

Agent for the Brazilian bombshell, he is required to produce a non-existent French singer he has been bragging about. Miranda makes like one so successfully that the act stays in, leaping from her South American to Parisian make-believing with the agility of Superman.

Inevitably, the ooh-la-la chanson is scouted for a Hollywood contract, and the jig is up. But before and in between leering, lunging Agent Marx's cavorting to insure his two-in-one-artist's making her two "curtains" 14 Gorgeous Gopa Girls and silver-tongued Gloria Jean provide diversion for the sterner sex. Andy Russell does as much for the distal side with a voice that makes agreeable listening.

To complete its extravagant reproduction of the plushy Manhattan nightclub, United Artists gives the customers a glimpse of columnists Louis Sobol and Earl Wilson and Variety's Abel Green, P. D.

Cases Filed With NLRB Show Drop From Year Ago

WASHINGTON, July 7 (INS) — The National Labor Relations Board reported 1066 cases were filed with it during May, a decline of 25 per cent from the number filed in May, 1946.

The board also reported that at the end of May, 5299 cases were at various procedural levels. The backlog represents an increase of 18 per cent over the number of cases pending a year ago.

Bobo Newsom Puts On One Man Show At Fenway Park

By AUSTEN LAKE

THAT OLD RED SOX ALUMNUS, Bobo Newsom, who both throws and IS a screwball, made a proper appraisal of himself before the Sabbath opener at Fenway.

Bobo was squatting, gently simmering on the Senator steps while some of the Boston press formed a half moon around him with pencils poised. Someone asked him how he proposed to pitch to Ted Williams and Bobo expectorated with vast majesty before gurgling, "Me? I don't know nothing about the guy, I'm only a fat man who's lucky to be around the leagues."

If candor, it was breath taking! But more likely it was only Bobo's delight in saying something sensational. Then he chose a bat from the dugout rack, turned his double-0 numerals to the gallery and marched to the batting cage, flitting his bunch-of-banana fingers to the front row spectators while Ossie Bluege, the Senator manager, said with a wry smirk, "Guess he isn't far wrong."

The Crowd Loved It!

AND SURE ENOUGH BOTH Bobo and Ossie were right! As prelude to sweeping the double-header, 7-4 and 10-1, Bluege hooked Bobo out in the sixth inning of a game that was less one of accustomed Red Sox standard than something sired by a Swiss clock out of a cheese dream. It lasted two and three quarter hours in a day that began at 1:30 and did not end till twenty minutes of seven—to the discontent of many of the 30,000, who either left the park prematurely or went home to late ice box suppers. The daudling, fiddling and fussing at Fenway in late games is not adding any glamour to the contests.

Still, while he lasted, Bobo was a one-man show with his dramatic pourings at Umpire Hal Weafer's decisions and his baleful glares at Washington fielders who made arches of their legs, bowed politely to hot rollers and took divots from the lawn with their chins. Bobo always made the most of his sufferings, sometimes lurking on the lip of the dugout to swap insults with the box customers, which was part theatrical and part natural goofiness in his makeup until Bluege thumbed him out of there. Then it was ALL goof!

Bobo stamped along the floor of the dugout and shuddered till he was like to quake clean out of his shirt and display the nude bulges of his stomach to the public. What he said to the Senator bench could only be surmised from the press box by the furlings of his window shade lips.

Nor did he immediately tuck his glove in his hip pocket and bow his head humbly, as is the usual custom with derelict pitchers. He continued to make certain calls on the dugout steps with many mournful wags of the head and irritable twitches of his torso which were plagerisms from the late Stanley Stasiak's wrestling act when he was performing for Paul Bowser mat operas.

Finally Bob chose a quiet interval when he could hog all the lime light and made his exit in solitary grandeur, staring defiance and snapping his teeth in return for the crowd's happy hoots. His day was over but he retired content with conviction he had wowed 'em.

So I find myself thinking what a dull corner the sport pages are these days without the picturesque characters who used to make sport writing a daffy joy. Because I am strained to name you more than a few of the old-time capcutters like Wes Ferrell, Dizzy Dean, Art Shires, Rabbit Maranville, Grover Alexander, Lefty Grove, Babe Ruth, Roy Johnson and types who once made our work painless. Nowadays we have to be satisfied, and even grateful for a Bobo and occasionally Ted Williams.

Galehouse A Bright Spot

NO, THE MECHANICS OF A well played ball game are merely the meat and potatoes of sport, satisfying to the appetite of course. But the piquant sauces and titillating tastes which linger longest in memory are the oddities, rowdy-dow ructions and curious cuckoos who best combined competence with clowning—the Max Baers, Larry Kelleys, George Marshalls, Jack Sharkeys, Eddie Shores.

Long after the chasers have faded and the game's heroisms are retired to the filing cabinets and libraries where such records are kept, the hollers, hullabaloes and hilarities will still echo down the ages to be retold whenever scribes sit down over a crust and a thumble. The dull ordinaries of sport will die in their boots but the goofies, cuckoos and daffies will be permanently stuffed as museum curios to live permanently beside the Shufflin' Phil Douglases, Hugh McQuillans and Babe Waddells.

Thus Ted Williams homerun swipes, though nine less at the moment than those of the Giants' Johnny Mize, will be remembered longer because Ted is a kind of living circus poster whose fits of rage, moody remorse, gusty tempers and rebellion run the scale of human emotions, while Johnny is just a dull and docile player.

The pictorial always jells in the mind while the commonplace and unromantic leaks away. Thus the player most talked about as the crowd trailed down the ramps was Bobo Newsom and his quaint nonsense, although Denny Galehouse, the castoff pitcher from the Browns, heaved another excellent game for the Sox after an opener that was like the Fat vs. the Lean men at a parish picnic. Denny was all workman, but Bobo posed, postured and made history with his every smallest motion.

Red Sox Face Stern Task To Overhaul Dashing Yanks

By HERB FINNEGAN

What are the chances of the Red Sox overcoming the Yankees' eight-game lead in the second half of the season? Golden, you'd guess, if you saw the Sox sweep the Sunday, 7-4, 10-1 at Fenway. But that wasn't a fair gauge.

The Sox have played 71 games. They have won 38, lost 33, a .583 gait. To reach their 95-game goal, they must win 57, lose only 36 of their remaining games, a .687 gait.

The league-leading Yankees have played 73 games. They have won 47, lost 26, a .644 gait. To reach the 95-game goal, they need win only 48, lose 33 of their remaining games, a .593 gait.

Thus the Sox, from resumption of their schedule in Detroit Thursday to the end of the campaign not only must exceed their first-half pace by a wide margin but exceed the Yankees' first-half pace.

They've got a man-sized job ahead, and it is doubtful if they're well-manned enough to meet it. There was Mickey Harris, after his three-inning stint against the Senators Sunday, a pitiable sight on the rubbing table. He had won his second game of the season, but may have lost his future.

Sox physicians are cautious but you could read their thoughts, and their thoughts were: "Might as well send him home. His shoulder injury is getting worse instead of better." It was his third attempt at pitching this season. He had gone seven "doering" innings against the Indians on June 11. "Feels tired," he said of his arm, "but not sore."

He had gone 7 2-3 Innings against the Browns in the 15-inning arclight game of June 18. "It's sore, really sore this time," he admitted. "I'm afraid I'm a dead duck." Dr. Bennett at Johns Hopkins Hospital advised him not to throw a ball for 10 days. Mickey didn't. But now his arm is worse than it was when he first hurt it in Knoxville, Tenn., last April. Rest is compulsory, and Harris will win no games for the Sox while he's resting.

Hughson, whose elbow is as sore as Harris' shoulder, pitched a three-hit shutout against the A's on July 4. It was most encouraging. But he pitched a two-hit shutout against the Yanks last April and was only a low shell during May and June.

Dr. Bennett recently advised him to rest the arm as much as possible, and Cronin promised to use him only once a week hereafter. Maybe he'll be effective with six days' rest between assignments. On the other hand, he may ruin himself for keeps if he keeps pitching with the arm in its present state. At any rate, he won't be the winner he was in '46, and the Sox need every victory they can get from him. He's won only five to date. Five more won't be enough to get the Sox up to 95.

There is reason to believe Ferriss will improve, and Dobson, despite his mid-summer slumps, should win if Earl Johnson remains healthy. It must be recalled, however, that Dobson never won more than 13 games in any season since he entered the league, so it is doubtful if he reaches the 20-mark this year.

Galehouse? Much better than anticipated. Picked up from the Browns only to help out until Harris and Hughson became themselves again, the 36-year-old right-hander promises to be the ace of the staff during the summer months. He never has been better than a .500 pitcher in his career, yet in four starts for the Sox he has pitched a four-hit shutout, two six-hitters, all complete games and all victories.

Because the Sox are bound to improve their hitting in the last half of the campaign (Williams, Doerr, DiMaggio, Pesky all sub-standard to date) Galehouse stands a good chance of having his most successful season. But Ferriss and Hughson as well as Dobson have got to help a lot, and who'd bet they'd match the pitching the Yanks are getting from Shea, Chandler, Johnson, Reynolds, Gumpert and Bevens?

No pennant will fly over Fenway next season unless Joe DiMaggio is forced out, and unless the Yanks mound corps becomes as crippled as the Red Sox.

Pesky's Hidden Ball Trick on Lewis Saves Mickey Harris

Johnny Pesky pulled Harris out of a hole in the first inning of the Sunday opener when he pulled the hidden ball trick on Buddy Lewis. Bases were loaded with nobody out.

Spence fled short to DiMaggio, and Yost didn't budge from third. Parlee took DiMaggio's throw, walked to the mound to talk to Harris. Pesky was awaiting him. Parlee gave Harris the ball. Pesky glanced at coaches Bluege and Weafer, then he took the ball and tucked it inside his glove. Harris went through with the bluff perfectly, fooling around with the rosin bag to distract attention. Lewis stepped off second, and was easy pickings. That broke the Senators' back.

"First time I've pulled it since '42," said Pesky. "It's hard to do because at times the umpire misses the play. But I gave McGowan the wink, and he winked back, so I knew everything was set. It worked so nicely I could have got it done any other time, but Jones wasn't in on the act."

Williams went hitless in the opener, but doubled off the center field wall in the second game, later was hit by a double when his boulder rolled through the legs of both Robertson and Travis at second base. That is the type of hit that caused Bo-Bo Newsom to be quoted in Sporting News: "Williams hits .300, is 50 extra points by the scorers." Williams' doorn't need that type of "hit." . . . Dom DiMaggio had three hits in the nightcap, seemed to have a fourth. "I had it beaten easily," he said of his roller to Travis. At any rate, it was the best by DiMaggio he's had at the plate all season, and since his wrist is healed and his shoulder practically mended, it should not be long before he bounces up the scale.

The first game was farcical, in that Washington made six errors. Sox made seven runs on nine hits with the help of wild throws. Newsom lasted five frames, Pieretti two and Ferrick one. Sox used four pitchers, Parnell, Dorish and Klingner appearing after Harris. Since none was an improvement on the ailing southpaw, he was credited with the victory . . .

Bob Elliott of Braves Will Miss All-Star Game

By MIKE GILLOOLY

As three members of the second place Braves shuffled off through Buffalo to the All-Star game in Chicago, third baseman Bob Elliott returned to his (or Elbie Fletcher's) home in Milton today for X-rays to determine the extent of the damage incurred in the bedlam of the Brooklyn series.

Officials of the N.L. team had been notified that the raw-boned Elliott, sidelined in the conclusion of the Bums' series, could not join the squad because of a ballooned index finger on his throwing hand.

The smash-up went almost entirely unnoticed in the excitement of the 4-1 triumph in the opener Saturday in Flatbush, a victory that returned the club to first place in the who's-on-top-now National League standings. Elliott remained in the game from the fifth inning on after the drive from Ed Slank's bat clipped the digit. But he was missing from the Sunday lineup, as the handy Bama Rowell took over.

Elliott's injury is visible and genuine—in spite of the Brooklyn murmurings that he stepped out for a rest because he was "1 for 23" on this road trip. The bubble-gum appearance of Elliott's hand provided evidence that there was no justifiable comparison to the Eddie Miller incident, which has caused no end of resentment in players' circles.

Elliott's finger is so swollen that he'll be excused from the untimely exhibitions in Providence, R. I. (tonight) and at Lynn (tomorrow night).

The in-and-out Braves, unable to tie together a consistent winning streak, need Elliott in the lineup if they're to continue pursuit of the flag. Without the All-Star third-sacker, the club lacks the power in the clean-up spot in the batting order—although in their Sunday exit from the N. L. lead, it's doubtful that even Elliott could have bothered Branca or the Brooklyn.

The Bums' ace had things well

Raynham Picks John Francis For Mutuels

In keeping with his policy of encouraging the success of local men in the sport of greyhound racing Gen. Mgr. Russell Murray, of Raynham Park, has named John Francis, of Jamaica Plain as mutuels director for the Massachusetts Greyhound Ass'n which opens its eighth season at Raynham Park next Friday night. "Johnny" Francis has been in the mutuel business for dozen years now save for a term of service in the United States Army during the recent World War.

He went up through all branches of the mutuels department until finally he attained a position of prominence among the pencil pushers in the calculating fraternity. Francis rates as one of the best calculators in the business today.

under control as he let down the Braves with three scattered hits. His hard one had a kangaroo hop on it with only the rain in the fourth inning threatening to deprive him of his 12th victory, to double the total of his losses.

It wasn't a defeat that was too hard to take. When an opposing pitcher is that hot, it's a problem to beat him. A setback like the one that Red Barrett dropped in Philadelphia is an entirely different matter. The red-head coasting on a 4-1 lead, found his mates riding along in a series of blunders rather than fumbles, which caused him to move out of the game that the Braves eventually blew, 6-5, when Newsome scored on a 2-base passed ball.

Braves finished the short trip with a 3-4 record; two shutouts and a routing by the Giants included in the losses. . . they're in second place, a full game behind the Dodgers, who have played two more, and a slim half game up above the power-laden Giants. . . Except for Elliott and Litwhiler's bruised heel, the club is in good shape. . . Pitcher Ed Wright, his ice-picked finger healed, wants a nine-inning assignment, after lengthy tuneups in the bullpen.

There'll be no action at the Wigwam until Thursday when there'll be an afternoon meeting with the Cincinnati Reds and, after dinner, the clubs will return to the park for a lampit meeting. . . the Braves will meet the four Western teams in this approaching home stand.

Southpaw Warren Spahn (called for relief work after the horse had been stolen in Brooklyn finale), Johnnie Sain, idle since the holiday, and catcher Phil Masi will be the Braves' representatives on the All-Stars.

Suffolk Downs Opens 30 Day Summer Meet

Confident that it has the best thoroughbreds obtainable backed by a racing schedule that includes six stakes, totaling $120,000 in added monies, the Eastern Racing Ass'n Inc. swings wide the gates of expansive Suffolk Downs in East Boston this afternoon to launch a 30-day summer meeting that will run through Saturday, Aug. 9.

Pres. Allan J. Wilson and his associates anticipate one of the most successful meetings in the 13-year history of the track. Everything possible has been done to pave the way for this mid-summer stay of the runners, including a particularly careful selection of the horsemen who have come to the Downs either for the first time or are back after a lapse of several seasons.

Racing at Suffolk Downs will be climaxed by the $50,000 added Massachusetts Handicap, mile and an eighth, on Wednesday, July 30, one of the nation's greatest races

Bobby Locke and Ed Oliver Share Tie in Big Golf Tourney

CHICAGO (AP)—South Africa's Bobby "cash-and-carry" Locke conquered a heavy wind and stampeding galleryites to slam a sub par 71 and move into a 72-hole tie with Ed "Porky" Oliver, who skidded to a 74, thus throwing the Tam O'Shanter crown into a playoff.

The extra session for the $7000 first prize drill will be over a 36-hole route—18 today starting at 2 p. m. (C.D.T.) and the final 18 on Tuesday.

Locke's one-under-par 71 was posted two hours after Oliver disgustingly tromped in through the crowds estimated at 45,000 with a pair of 37s to wind up his bid for golf's richest award with 276, 12 strokes under the regulation.

Starting the last 18-hole round, Locke trailed the Wilmington, Del., veteran by three strokes. After matching par 36 on the first nine, the visitor from the velvet was only two strokes behind.

Locke birdied the 64th, 66th and the 67th and needed only to match par on the remaining five holes to win.

As news spread around the 6285-yard course that Locke had a stroke lead, spectators began jamming the sides of the fairways and greens to watch the sensational foreign golfer—the best to hit this country in two decades—continue his triumphal march. At his side was George S. May, 56-year-old promoter, dressed in yellow pants and a blinding red-sports jacket.

But Locke faltered. In the face of a stiff wind and the milling crowd, he went over par on the next two holes, taking a five after being cornered in a trap, and then a six after his shot from the wiry rough cracked against a tree blocking his patch to the green.

He parred the last three holes, but almost faded out on the 18th green where his approach was 75 feet from the pin.

For fully three minutes, Locke paced the distance from his ball to the cup like an expectant father in a hospital corridor. Then he confidently tapped the ball. It stopped three feet short. Again Locke tapped the ball. It trickled to the lip, hung there momentarily then plunked into the hole.

As Oliver and Locke tangle in the third playoff since the Tam O' Shanter jamboree was born in 1941, both will have a chance to soar near the top of the pro's financial list, now headed by Ben Hogan with earnings of $17,167.49.

Locke, who had won four of the nine tournaments he has entered since hitting these plush shores, so far has pocketed $9200.

36 Hearst Sand-Lot Play to Draw 300 to Wigwam

By JACK CONWAY, Jr.

The most lavish amateur baseball tryout ever staged anywhere in New England will be held tomorrow morning at Braves Field beginning at 10 a. m. The tournament is the sixth in a series of ten Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Sandlot production docketed for N. E. cities.

Del Bissonette, former Braves manager will be directly in charge of the tryouts. Del, now managing the Portland Pilots of the N. E. League, will be aided by Bill Barrett, famed ex-major leaguer, and Claude Davidson, another former big time player who is now directing the New England Class B League.

Other members of the Hearst Braves Field board include Rev. George Dowd, Rev. John Sullivan, V.O. chieftains; Park Commissioner William P. Long; Billy Mullins and Bob Cusick, Boston recreation commission; Joe McKenney, Bill Brenberger, and Jimmy Duffy, local athletic leaders.

It is expected that more than 300 Greater Boston sandlot ball players will report to the Wigwam for the trials. Last year the count was over 250 competitors. All boys who report must be over 16 and under 19 years of age.

John Quinn, general manager of the Braves, will extend the usual fine hospitality of the Braves organization to the sandlot players. John and publicity director Bill Sullivan fully realize the importance of the Hearst baseball school.

"A great thing for the kids," said Quinn. "We will all be watching these boys very carefully as they hustle through the workouts. Three of the competitors in last year's Hearst tournament are now in major league organizations. Frank Seastrand and Normie Roy are with the Braves. Menard, the catcher from Providence is in Class C ball and heading up the ladder."

The Hearst board at Braves Field will select the EIGHT best baseball prospects from the assembled group. These boys then will be eligible to compete in the Hearst New England Sandlot final at Fenway Park on July 29.

The Fenway final will be played as a co-feature with a Red Sox-Cleveland game. Joe Cronin and Lou Boudreau will be directors. The two best players from this final will take a seven-day Hearst trip to New York for the National title game at the Polo Grounds on Aug. 13.

There is no entry fee. The gates at Braves Field will open to the sandlotters and their friends at 9:45 a. m.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

Tracks Should Prosper Despite Conflicts

By DAVE WILSON

Financially speaking, Suffolk Downs and Lincoln Downs should not fare too badly in their respective conflicting meetings scheduled to get under way today. It is no military secret that Suffolk can make a substantial profit on a daily mutual average of around $800,000 and Lincoln can do likewise on a play of less than half that amount.

To all calculations, the warfare between the two tracks, if there is any such thing, will be isolated. It is generally conceded that the majority of the race fans from Boston and northern outlying localities will be legion in their support of Suffolk Downs and its fine roster of stakes and crack thoroughbreds. The same is expected to hold true of Lincoln Downs with the Rhode Island patrons and those from southern localities turning out en masse at the new modern track.

Narragansett closed down a highly successful 30-day meeting the past Saturday. Attendance figures for the meeting reached 396,837 and the daily mutual play averaged $928,096. The highlight of the Rhode Island sport was last Saturday's $25,000 Providence Stakes, which attracted a field of crack 3-year-olds and was won by R. L. Gerry's Young Peter after a stirring stretch run.

In an effort to improve the quality of future racing at Narragansett Park, Judge James E. Dooley is toying with the idea of barring horses stabled outside of the grounds, other than those listed for stake competition. Abe Smuckler, owner of the Teletimer, was a visitor at Gansett on Saturday, lending credence to rumors that the Rhode Island track will have electric timing at its next meeting.

It may or may not have any bearing on the result of the Suffolk-Lincoln conflict, but the East Boston track has been telling the world that it has the faster tote. You can take my word for it that the decision to run Lincoln against Suffolk was in no manner influenced by the monopoly created by the much-too-often epic sprint struggles between Agrarian, U. Tarpan, West Fleet, Windmill, Hly-Charlie, et al.

Stymie's score in the Sussex Handicap on Saturday at Delaware Park brought his money winning total to $595,510 enabling him to pass Assault, who has amassed $376,670, for the all-time money-winning record. Uncle Lou Smith came on in time from New York to attend today's opening at Suffolk Downs.

CHICAGO (INS) — Felice Torza, state champion from Wethersfield, Ct., won the All-American amateur golf tournament with a 72-hole score of 219-75—294.

Torza finished three strokes ahead of runner-up John Barnum, Chicago, and five strokes ahead of Joe Moore, Jr., Louisiana State University. Defending champion George Hamer, Columbus, Ga., carded a 72-hole score of 310.

Jockey Injured In Freak Fall

William F. Caldaroni, 17, of Sutton ave., Providence, an apprentice jockey, was still unconscious and in serious condition at Chelsea Memorial Hospital today after falling from a van transporting horses in East Boston.

The youth suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries when a van door against which he was leaning suddenly swung open as the vehicle was rounding a turn in Chelsea st., East Boston, according to police.

Another apprentice jockey, Henry Barnacle, 23, of North Shore rd., Revere, also was thrown to the pavement but escaped serious injury. The van was carrying five horses from Narragansett Park to Suffolk Downs.

Hearst Golfers Move to Merrimack Valley Club

Close to 100 golfers will tee off this morning at 8:30 o'clock at the Merrimack Valley Country Club, Methuen, in the third of four qualifying rounds for the Hearst New England Junior championship. Pro Alx Hackney at Merrimack Valley sends word that the beautiful 18-hole layout is in excellent shape for the tourney.

The fourth Hearst Junior round will be held at the Wachusett Country Club, West Boylston, Friday, July 11. The course at Wachusett is one of the finest in the New England states and will act as a magnet for many fine golfers.

The Hearst Junior tournament is open to any golfer who has not yet reached his 19th birthday. There is no entry fee. Caddies are prominent among the entrants. It has been estimated that 60 per cent of the competitors are caddies at various New England clubs.

The first round was held at the Pawtucket C. C. and drew 54 golfers. The second round was played at the South Shore C. C. and drew 111 golfers.

Eight boys will qualify from each of the four clubs. Then the total of 32 will make up the draw for the Hearst New England championships which will be held at the Woodland C. C. on July 28, 29, 30.

The finalists in the "Hearst" will then be eligible to take the two weeks trans-continental trip to Los Angeles for the Hearst national round.

Clip your entry blank today and mail it to the Hearst Junior Golf editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

New Lincoln Track to Open Today

By BOB WALDO

Amidst the lilted work of construction engineers, and in direct competition with Suffolk Downs, Lincoln Downs, New England's fourth thoroughbred race course, will throw its gates open to the public for the first time this afternoon. The feature of the opening day festivities will be the "Lincoln Downs Inaugural Handicap," in which a field of 10 fine sprinters are expected to face the barrier.

Although work will continue throughout the 42-day meeting, everything necessary to conduct a successful racing card is ready.

The afternoon's feature has drawn the likes of Mrs. J. D. S. Coleman's Boston Man, top weighted with 122 pounds, A. H. Warner's hard hitting Honour Student, F. M. Poncelet's Supro, Mrs. E. Rice's Reigh Star. Others who will travel the 6 1/4 furlong course are: Bestbook, Sammand, African Sun, Careless, Cuban Bomb and Post War Style.

Racing Sec. Gordon Morrow will offer an eight race program with ten horses listed to break from the gate in each event. Although it is planned to allow 12 horse fields, Morrow is limiting entries to ten until the racing strip has been tested with several days' racing.

The bulk of the entries are made up of horses that raced at the Narragansett meeting which had closed Saturday. Along with these, there will be several bangtals that shipped in from Randall Park, O.

Special trains will leave South Station for Pawtucket, from where race-goers will be bussed over to the new thirteen-sixteenth track.

Post time for the first race daily will be 2:15, with the daily double windows closing at 2:05.

Fall River Takes Lawrence Game, 8-7

FALL RIVER (AP)—A four-run outburst in the ninth inning gave the Fall River Indians an 8-7 New England League victory over the Lawrence Millionaires.

A double with two out by left fielder Bob Ballance drove in the fourth and winning run. Two other doubles, a single and a walk brought home the other three runners in the final frame.

Lawrence: 1 0 0 0 2 2 1 6-7 22 1
Fall River: 0 2 0 0 1 3 0 8-7 22 1

Yale Star Loses in Montclair, N. J. Finals

MONTCLAIR, N. J. (AP)—Enrique Buse of Lima, Peru, and Rollins College won the eastern intercollegiate tennis championship, upsetting Irvin Dorfman of Yale, top-seeded defending champion, 11-9, 6-4, 6-4, in the singles finals at the Montclair Athletic Club.

Dorfman came back with John Moses, however, and won the doubles title by defeating Buse and Gus Peoples of Rollins.

'Non-Backlash Reel' Will Soon Be on Sale for Anglers

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Many surf casters who are bothered by backlashes—and who isn't?—should rejoice in the news that a "non-backlash reel" may be on the market in the near future, possibly in time for autumn sport.

This new reel has been designed by Francis Lord, of Waltham, who has devoted 4000 working hours to the device since last September—and it really looks like the answer to an angler's dreams.

We tried casting with the reel last week, and failed to get a backlash, which is most unusual for us! No thumbing is necessary, a gadget called "the invisible thumb" controlling the line. This will also regulate the drag, as well as the varying weight of plugs, drails, and other lures.

The mechanism and operating principles of the reel can't be revealed at the moment, for Mr. Lord has one or two wrinkles to iron out before he starts to manufacture this article at his machine shop in Waltham. As soon as he feels that the reel is fool-proof, he will inform us. As a matter of fact, he doesn't claim that it will be 100 per cent perfect, but is confident that about nine out of ten casts will float smoothly out into the waves.

"How did I happen to invent the reel?" said Mr. Lord. "Well, I'm not much of a fisherman myself, but an ardent striped-seeking friend of mine challenged me to make one, betting that I couldn't turn out a non-backlash surf casting reel—and here it is, at last."

After a bit of practice, beginners can get their plugs out as far as 50 or 60 yards, while experts have cast 90 to 100 yards with the reel, which will be named, "The Stripper" . . . If his reel is completed successfully in a few weeks, Lord plans to offer several for prizes in the Martha's Vineyard Striped Bass Derby.

ANGLING ANGLES: When this piece appears in print, we'll be on vacation, ready to take some short fishing trips to Buzzards Bay; Sebago Lake, Me., and Ogunquit, Me. . . . According to the boys at the Red Top Bait Co., Buzzards Bay, recent catches were made by Mrs. David McMurry, of Attleboro, who took three bass, ranging from 10 to 14 pounds; and Carl Lee, Grosvenordale, who landed a whopping 29 1/4-pounder, on an Atomic plug . . . The Canal is teeming with stripers and squid.

Baksi Loses To Swedish Champion

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Given only a small chance to win, Olle Tandberg, Swedish heavyweight champion, last night scored a stunning, upset victory over Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa., in a 10-round bout and thus qualified to meet world titleholder Joe Louis for the crown in New York, Sept. 19.

A crowd of 25,000 in Rasunda Stadium saw the Swede, a three to one shot, gain a split decision over the American who hadn't lost a fight since 1945.

Tandberg, little known outside of his own country and not even considered much of a hope there, gave away six pounds to the former coal-miner, weighing 208 to Baksi's 214.

Two of the three Swedish judges voted for the 28-year-old Tandberg and the third voted for a draw.

Tremendous applause greeted the verdict which gave Sweden its first heavyweight title contender in modern boxing history.

Tandberg, who had been beaten by Eddie Phillips of England and Karel Sys of Belgium in recent years, withstood Baksi's slashing body attacks, cut Joe over the eye in the second round and bloodied his nose in the seventh.

Both Baksi and Tandberg had been signed to contracts by Lew Burston, European representative of Promoter Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century S. C., to oppose Louis in case they won.

Louis, in Chicago, laughed loudly when he heard the news of the Swede's upset triumph, and said "It looks like I won't fight anybody this year."

Tandberg, and I don't see how the public would pay more than 15 cents to see a championship fight in which the contenders pop out of nowhere like Tandberg.
